5. General reports

5.1 CEMEX

Jan Peters reported after achieving 816 accident free days or 1.95 million working hours on-site, there has been one lost time injury where a person slipped on ice or a slippery road surface.

Kevin Groombridge reported that environmentally the site has finished 2016 in a better position compared to 2015, the number of complaints received was reduced along with the number of self reports submitted to the Environment Agency which was significantly reduced. The main kiln emissions of dust, oxides of nitrogen and sulphur dioxide were all lower than emission limits.

Jan Peters went on to report that the kiln operation has been more stable of late and the need to stop and shoot the kilns to remove kiln coating or rings has not occurred for at least 12 weeks. Unfortunately, stopping the kilns for the predicted flooding over the weekend of the 15th January has caused the brickwork in Kiln 3 to fall out and so it is having a 10 day outage for repairs. Kiln 2 will be shutdown in March for 4 weeks for maintenance after running since December 2014.

A continuous Improvement Manager has been appointed to implement new management techniques to the workforce and to help implement health and safety improvements following being recommended to be awarded ISO 18001.

The clinker and cement budgets for the year are yet to be agreed but are expected to be in the order of 400,000 tonnes and 500,000 tonnes respectfully.

Sara Haddon asked Mike Roe to look at lorry movements through the village, the opportunity for them not to travel in a bunch and to turn off their flashing beacons before reaching the village. The issues are not just with CEMEX tankers or sub contracted tanker companies but clinker lorries also transporting clinker to Tilbury.

Mike roe agreed to report back at the next meeting the split of lorries travelling both ways along the A1077 when they leave site, opportunities to develop a preferred routing scheme for lorries, actions taken to get drivers to turn off their beacons and how he has reminded drivers to be a "good neighbour" to the local residents.

The issue with a Clugston tanker on evening of the 13th January when the road was closed at the East end of the village was discussed. Mike Roe agreed to investigate what had happened and feed back.
